New Aid Code 0C

The new Healthy Families aid code 0C, which is used for AIM babies for the first two years of life, has been activated in the EDS claims processing system. This means that it is now OK to issue SARs to these clients. In prior This Computes you were directed to use the Legacy authorization process for these clients, but now that the EDS system recognizes the aid code this is no longer necessary. Counties may wish to go back and issue SARs for cases previously issued Legacy authorizations since this will simplify the billing process for our providers, but this is not mandatory.
